“Become Agent for Social Change”

Our Project News

The second result of the UTOPIA project, “Become Agent for Social Change” Game, is now ready and you can access it here!

The game was tested by 120 young people, 40 youth workers and 12 experts in total.

National Events in Romania, Greece, Ukraine and Poland

As the UTOPIA project reached its conclusion, partners implemented final national events to showcase the results, share experiences, and engage youth workers, young people, and stakeholders in meaningful dialogue about inclusion and intercultural understanding.

Through these events, participants shared experiences, explored the tools developed in UTOPIA, and celebrated the importance of inclusion for displaced young people.

Each country added its own voice to the project’s story, proving that while contexts may differ, the values of solidarity and intercultural understanding unite us all.

As the UTOPIA project comes to an end, we proudly look back on everything we have achieved together. Over the past 18 months, we have created tools, shared knowledge, and built bridges of understanding that will continue to inspire youth workers and young people long after the project closes. Most importantly, UTOPIA has shown that when we come together across borders, we can foster empathy, inclusion, and solidarity with those who need it most.

We warmly thank all our participants and stakeholders who contributed to this journey. The project may be ending, but the spirit of UTOPIA will live on through the use of our resources, the dedication of youth workers, and the commitment of young people to build more welcoming communities.
